The Peech Hotel appeals to those seeking a contemporary and chic yet eco-friendly experience of Johannesburg. This ecoboutique hotel is centrally located in Melrose, close to business districts such as Melrose Arch, Rosebank and Sandton.

The Peech Hotel demonstrates a great commitment towards operating in an environmentally responsible manner. The business has excellent operational measures in place such as solar-water geysers for the entire property as well as drinking water that is filtered on site and makes use of refillable glass bottles (reducing the use of plastic bottles). In addition, rain and grey water from baths and showers is processed and recycled for use in the Peech's lush and leafy garden, which also has its own herb garden.

Owner James Peech continues to create a sustainable and carbon-neutral environment for guests and staff through innovative environmental management, ongoing community investment initiatives and local procurement.

The Peech Hotel has a long-standing and serious commitment to investment in its local community where it supports Little Eden Childrens' Home. The hotel also donates relevant items (linen, crockery, etc) to the charity and allows the staff of Little Eden to stay at the hotel as an incentive for top performance. Guests are also able to support this charity by voluntarily contributing R5 for each night that they stay at the hotel; The Peech Hotel then matches the donation and reports progress on their website.

The Peech Hotel gives preference to local and BEE-rated businesses and purchases Fair Trade products on a regular basis.
